Enrollment becomes largest in school's history; students shuffle slowly in faceless crowd, content with being just a number

How can I catch myself before I disappear into the surging masses around me? The enrollment for the 1972-73 school year is the largest in the school's history. With 1495 others around me, how can I stand out as someone unique? The halls visibly seem to shrink amid the slowly moving tide of students making their way to their next classes. How easy it is to sigh and simply move along with the crowd.

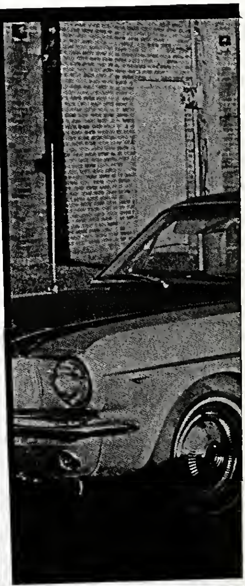
Upper right: Some days just aren't worth the bother. Junior Linda Hanks contemplates the happenings of her day.

I must stand out of crowd



In 1911, New Haven High School was established with an enrollment of 50 students. Mr. B. H. Smith was principal, and in 1913, four people received diplomas as the first graduating class. Today, around 500 will graduate in May 1973.

"Always accomplish a little more and be somewhat superior to the preceeding class, but by all means be original." This is the advice given by the graduating class of '23, to the remaining classes in NHHS. This philosophy will prove useful in the end and still today is good advice for any class.

On November 30, 1923, the basketball team started the season by defeating Woodburn 51-13. The season went by with 10 games played; New Haven won seven.

In 1920, the Girls Athletic Association was originated with basketball the only sport. One evening a week was devoted to practice; the season ended with five wins.

From 1911 to 1973 there has been approximately 7000 graduates from New Haven High, with this year being the biggest class ever.

As I go through my high school years, I must be a part of my school, not just another number. During the many hours of my student life I will prove that I am not just one of the crowd.

reigns as Bulldogs Homecoming game

For the first time in three years the two Homecoming days at New Haven dawned undimmed by rain, a phenomenon which proved a good sign for the Bulldogs. The team went out Friday night and "Scrunched South" by a score of 21-20, as Mary Criswell so hopefully predicted to Mr. Anonymous (Klopfenstein) at Friday's pep session, winning herself five dollars.

The Senior float won first place out of the class division in the parade, and Spanish Club took the award for the best club float.

Renee Shaffer was chosen as the 1972 Homecoming queen. Her attendants were Martha Kratzat, Peggy Newhall, Peggy Partridge, Carla Eynon, Tami Beatty and Jill Meyers.

The final climax of this triumphant Homecoming was the after-dance, at which "Narrow House", provided the music.

The 1972 election provided an opportunity for students to vigorously campaign and to help put their favorite candidates into office. After much deliberation, many 18-year-olds cast their first ballots November 2, 1972 in national elections.

Five exchange students came to New Haven during the year. Living with the families of various students, they shared experiences from their countries and rapidly learned about life in New Haven and the United States. Classes invited the exchange students to speak and show pictures of their South American or German cultures.

Right: The evening was not complete without trying a hand at dousing a favorite, or not so favorite teacher at the German club dunking booth.

Kicking off the annual Sadie Hawkins carnival and dance, students swarmed to the numerous club booths to test their skills, buy pottery, play games, purchase refreshments and put the people of their choice in jail (for a slight fee).

After the traditional chase, in which girls were set free in the gym to catch the boys Daisy-Mae style, Tug Pierson and Tami Beatty were named king and queen of the event, and Larry Helmke and Candy Darnell were awarded honors for best costumes.

In a mock ceremony, couples repeated marriage vows and received token certificates. The couples then moved to the girls' gym to finish the evening dancing.

Masque and Gavel presented their three-act play, "Time Out for Ginger," the evenings of March 9 and 10 at 8 p.m.

Ginger, played by junior Lori Casterline, wanted to be a member of the boys' football team but her boyfriend, played by sophomore Mike Lynch, wanted her to be a cheerleader.

Ginger's father, played by senior Terry Knepp, said that people should be allowed to do what they want, so Ginger decided to do just that.

This caused a disagreement with her older sisters Jeanne and Joan, played by junior Liane Isenbarger and senior Karen Ericson, who thought girls shouldn't have to take gym, let alone play football.

Mr. May, director, felt that ticket sales had gone as well as in the past, and the play itself was going well.

The play proved a success for all who participated in or saw the three-act.

Play success for Masque & Gavel

Prior to the production of the play, Mr. Francis May said that there had been no major trouble this year.

Thursday, March 1, and Tuesday, March 6 were critic rehearsals. Most of the criticisms and suggestions were favorable.

Two problems the cast noticed the most were illness and trying to stay in character. Senior Terry Knepp lost his voice during the third week of rehearsals which presented problems for members of the cast who had to pick up cues from him.

Being a humorous play, the members also found it difficult to remain in character when the audience was laughing so hard.

Despite all the minor problems present in producing a play, Mr. May felt it was again a success.

Beatty, Stratton reign over "Color My World"

Juniors Tami Beatty and Charlie Stratton were elected queen and king of "Color My World," the 1973 prom. Attire was semi-formal and songs were played from modern groups because of complaints from students about previous proms. "Color My World" was held at the Chamber of Commerce Building in the Woman's Ballroom. Just as last year, the after-prom was at Brunswick Recreation Center with bowling, playing an electric piano, or dancing to Iron Horse provided for the couples.

Weather, lunch tables pose problems

Newer, smaller lunch tables posed a problem for students attempting to locate seats. Cramming many extra chairs around the infinitesimal tables was the only solution. Elbows in mashed potatoes and lunches overlapping each other didn't interfere with the process of consuming the food. Thank goodness for those who went out for lunch; otherwise, it was always "make room for another chair."

Awakening to the sound of raindrops and arriving at school, hair dripping in tangled messes around their eyes was always a great way to start the day for many girls. Weather posed a problem for students throughout the school year. Cars stuck in the snow and skidded into ditches; bright, sunny days melted snow just when some planned a weekend of skiing, and others fell flat on their posteriors on icy walks in front of delighted audiences.

Although school was pronounced "spiritless" and pep sessions were changed to voluntary, students filled the gym to view the amusing skits and cheer the teams on to victory. Newly donned Vic the Bulldog made his first appearance of the year at the beginning of the second semester.

Students welcomed the 25 minutes out of the hectic day to catch up on "forgotten" assignments, voice their opinions at Sounding Board, or put the time to use in the cafeteria consuming a mid-morning snack. Even if eating a cookie or holding up a wall was the only "activity" derived, activity period provided a few carefree minutes to relax.

Jobs take up after-school hours for many; relaxation fills time for others

After a tiring day of school, students found many ways to relax their tired muscles and foggy minds. Sleeping under a tree, and reading comics in stores were only a few of the numerous ways to forget the books. When Friday night came around, a wonderful invention called "a weekend" made school an unheard of word.

For many of the students, after school hours and weekends meant earning a few more dollars. Pumping gasoline, running a cash register, and waiting on tables were all familiar sights around New Haven. Even having a girl pump your gas at the Hammond Standard Station seemed nothing out of the ordinary. Part-time jobs added to the bustle of the already hectic year.

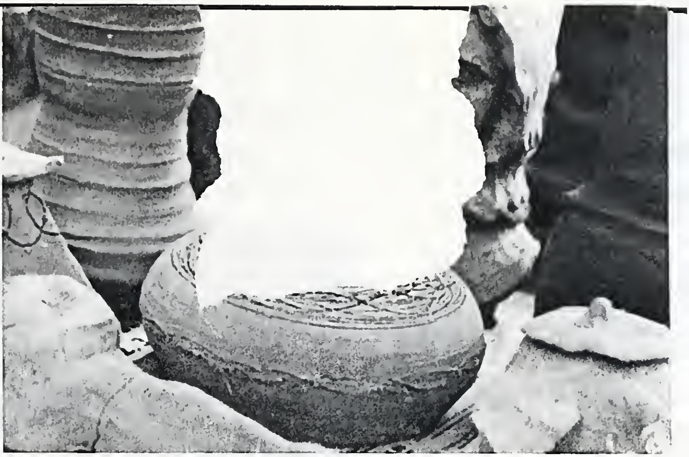
into limelight



Water colors, yarn, clay, chalk and various dyes were some of the medias used by the art students this year to express their talent.

Mrs. Judith Palmer, new to NHHS this fall, was the advanced art and ceramics teacher. The students in her classes experimented with various techniques of tie-dyeing, stitchery and macrame. They also tried their hands at pottery and small plaster sculpture.

To help students realize the danger of fire, Miss Mary Manifold's art class made fire prevention posters that were displayed in the cafeteria. They also tried contour drawings, one and two point perspectives, and line sequences.

Far Left: Visiting the Court House to observe trials in action are senior Judy Shappel and junior Lori Prather.

In Business Law, taught by Mr. Dennis Johnson and Mr. Arnold Ball, students had an opportunity to learn the workings of justice first-hand. Classes took an all-day field trip to the City County Building and Court House, where they observed two trials.

Students had another chance to examine the workings of the law when they conducted their own trials. They invented their own crimes and defended the criminals.

Mr. Norman Stephan and Mr. Johnson taught Business Machines. In this class students learned the principles of filing. They were taught how to operate machines including the ten key, calculator, stencil, duplicator and transcriber.

Bookkeeping, taught by Mr. Donald Stebing, showed students how to record business transactions similar to those that are required by many firms. Students completed two practice sets to finish the course.

English curriculum requirements change

New innovations in the English curriculum gave students a wider variation of courses to choose from.

Integrated Grammar and Composition, taught by Miss Anne Longtine and Mrs. Louise Jones gave sophomores a chance to experiment in individualized study. The course was set up for the use of uni-paks, and pupils were required to complete a minimum of 17 packets to pass the course.

Another new class this year was drama, taught by Mrs. Anita Kinzie. The class studied drama of 1920-1950 and performed selected readings from the plays.

Mrs. Kinzie's new poetry class looked at traditional and contemporary poetry and many different poets.

This year's changing fashion trends gave students the opportunity to explore many different sewing techniques.

Some projects that were attempted by sewing III and IV students were knit outfits with designer patterns, lined outfits, and tailored jackets and coats.

In both Boys' Foods and Advanced Foods the students prepared a Christmas banquet to which they invited outside guests. The food was served, was selected and prepared by the students themselves.

Exchange students increased in number, but New Haven was also privileged to have two exchange teachers, Mr. Guenther Rohrmoser (German) and Mr. Wolfgang Supiran (French and German).

The entire foreign language faculty was involved in adopting new and improved textbooks and materials for the first year courses which will be offered in 1973-74 year. All the language classes made more use of audio-visual equipment and students performed skits and plays in the classes.

Spring vacation was travel time for many foreign language students, as they journeyed to France, Germany, Italy, or Spain.

A testing program for fourth-year language students was initiated as the result of North Central evaluation. These tests evaluated students' proficiency compared to that of others across the nation.

Math scholars probe complexity of digits

Students interested in math had many courses to choose from this year. Geometry, general math, trigonometry, algebra, and introduction to calculus were a sample of the courses taught this year.

Mr. Robert Wolfe's geometry classes were given a mixture of the traditional approach to teaching along with group work and self-help techniques.

Mr. Richard Schilling taught his algebra three and four classes with the use of the uni-pack system of individualized study.

Both boys' and girls' health and physical education classes participated in many activities. As long as summer weather lingered, the classes took full advantage of outdoor sports. Among these were flag football, soccer, softball, and track. As winter snows covered the school grounds prohibiting outdoor recreations the classes participated in indoor sports as volleyball, basketball, gymnastics and tumbling.

The guys added wrestling to their classes and modern gymnastics, tennis skills, free ex, folk dance, and archery were added to the girls. Time was allowed for marching formations, Marine Fitness Test, and skills tests following each unit for the guys. The girls participated in the Presidential Physical Fitness Tests, and vigorous skills tests.

Since ROTC has become coeducational, nine sophomore girls have joined the ranks in addition to the six junior girls who joined last year. The Navy has now recognized girls as part of ROTC, so they are being provided with two new uniforms, one for dress, and the other for summer.

Competition for the drill team began January 20, when the boys placed fifth out of 14 teams, and the girls placed seventh out of nine in their first drill contest.

Climaxing the year's events, ROTC teams visited Norfolk, Virginia. They were accompanied by their instructors, Marine Corp Lt. Col. Robert Krippner and Navy chief petty officer Donald Stewart.

intriguing worlds

Biology classes began with detailed studies of trees in the area. This ended when students completed leaf collections. They were instructed how to use and set microscopes and then examined protozoans in labs. The classes dissected earthworms, clams, crayfish, grasshoppers, and perch.

Zoology classes took a close look at invertebrates early in the year. Once finished, they began extensive examination of the anatomy and physiology of humans. During this study time was taken to listen to medical professionals explain the nature of their specific vocations. Classes dissected fetal pigs.

Botany took immense advantage of the greenhouse. This class studied the growth and anatomy of plants. It also involved a six to eight week Biological Science Curriculum Study.

Chemistry classes learned the fundamentals of elements, their symbols, formula writing, and oxidation reduction. Most units were followed by labs and as visual study aids films were used. Advanced classes studied qualitative analysis, metals, gave research reports, and prepared individual projects.

Applications of carpentry, metal work and drafting processes were contained in the industrial art department's major aims.

Correct use of tools and materials was taught in metals class, enabling each student to design his own project.

The safe use of power tools and carpentry methods were two fundamentals covered in wood classes. The boys (and a few girls) produced items such as gun racks, cabinets, work benches and shelves.

Working in mechanical drawing classes students were taught how to transmit objects into smaller scale drawings.

Including information about their jobs, studies, sports and other areas of interest, the classes published a monthly newspaper called the SUPER STAR REVIEW for the first year.

Students all had part-time jobs as part of their regular studies. They usually worked about three hours daily. When back in the classroom they studied social studies, math and English.

For those students interested in the behind-the-scenes operation of the New Haven IMC, a new course, Introduction to Media Management, was added to the agenda for the second semester. The basic areas covered in this course were the circulation desk, magazines, reference, audio-visual equipment, vertical file, and cataloging (typing).

During their study hall the students with a pass were permitted to use the IMC to study, listen to music, view film strips, or sit and read a favorite paperback book.

Harriers finish season 11-9

Despite injuries and some disqualifications, the cross country team finished with its first winning season in three years.

A big setback came when Phil Brunett, senior, hurt his leg in practice and missed two meets. Even when he returned he did not begin running up to par until the NEIC meet.

Disqualifications came when runners missed flags and did not run the correct courses. In this way the team lost three meets.

The harriers participated in the DeKalb Invitational this year. Seniors Phil Brunett and Steve Link were awarded plaques for fourth place finishes in their races. As a team the Bulldogs placed fifth. Running in the West Noble Invitational they finished third.

In the conference meet Brunett and sophomore Brad Jacobson finished in the top ten, fourth and seventh respectively. Other finishers were junior Bobby Knuckles, 20; senior Tom Muth, 25; Link, 27; senior Bruce Jump, 29, and senior Flip Taylor, 35.

The sectional meet saw Brunett finish in sixth place; Knuckles, 18; Jackobson, 20; Muth, 47; Jump, 62; Link, 84, and junior Rich Kelty, 86. The team finished in fifth place.

Gridders post 6-3 season

Beginning the season with spirits high, the gridders quickly racked up three wins in as many outings. This included a very close and emotional Homecoming game against South Side.

The backfield, which had averaged almost 300 yards per game in the first three contests, was stopped by Concordia as the Cadets held the Bulldogs to 34 yards rushing, and beat them 32-0.

The remainder of the season contained easy wins against Wayne and Columbia City, tough losses to Snider and third-ranked Bishop Luers, and a victory over previously undefeated Woodlan.

State honor goes to Barnes

Topping off a fine high school career, Phil Barnes made honorable mention on the All-State Football Team. He was also listed on the All-NEIC third team. Jim Eby, Jack Fleckenstein, Jack Huttinger and Rick Nix made All-NEIC Honorable Mention.

During the season Barnes scored 58 points, which placed him fourth in scoring in the NEIC. He compiled nearly 200 yards in the first game against Bellmont, but found the going tough the rest of the season, as most opposing defenses keyed on him.

Difficult schedule poses little problem to Bulldogs

Before the football season began, fans and experts gave the Bulldogs little chance of finishing with a winning record. They did not possess a great passing attack, much size or speed, and they played a very tough schedule.

But the Bulldogs scratched and clawed their way to a fine 6-3 record, their best since 1965. They accomplished this mostly on desire, hustle and a good coaching staff, led by John Becker.

The defense came up with two sparkling shutouts. It whitewashed Eau Claire, Michigan, 23-0, and Wayne, 30-0.

The offense showed explosiveness. It ran up 43 points in one game as the Bulldogs trounced Columbia City.

One of the Bulldogs' strongest points was poise. During the Homecoming game they trailed South Side by two touchdowns in the fourth quarter. But they slowly crept back and won by a single point, 21-20.

Another show of poise came in a game against third-ranked Bishop Luers. Although they fell behind early and eventually lost the game, they battled the rugged Knights to a stand-off in the second half.

The Bulldogs had a really tough season, yet they came out winners. Becker his staff, and the team deserve a pat on the back for a job done well.

Cagers begin season strong

Basketball a la New Haven Bulldogs was a frustrating period as far as the 1972-73 season was concerned. After being victorious in 10 of their first 13 encounters, the Bulldogs dropped their last seven to wind up the year at 10-10.

Frustration followed New Haven into sectional action, as Coach Jerry Mitchel's quintet suffered a heartbreaking 66-65 loss at the hands of the Concordia Cadets. The Bulldogs were in control most of the way, but a pair of Cadet charity tosses with just two seconds left put a lid on New Haven's season.

All in all, it was a year of "ifs" for the Bulldogs, as six of the 11 losses were by just one or two points. A few breaks here and there might have made quite a difference.

Leading scorer for the purple and gold was senior Rick Rutledge. He averaged 18.3 points per contest, and finished seventh in the county scoring race. Senior Joe Vidra was the only other Bulldog who averaged in double figures, with a seasonal mean of 14 points.

Offensively, New Haven averaged 70 points per game, with their biggest scoring assault being a 93-point barrage against conference foe South Adams. Meanwhile, the Bulldogs gave up 63 points a game, with their best defensive showing versus Heritage, surrendering only 42 points.

Welsch advances to regional Despite an overall disappointing season, the wrestling schedule did have a few bright spots in it. One of these happy moments came in the sectional when senior Jeff Welsch took second place in the 112 pound class. He advanced to regional competition where he placed fourth.

Jim Creager, Phil Velez, Keith Klenke and Bill Schultz placed third in the sectional competition, and Neil Dickmeyer and Tug Pierson came in fourth.

As a team, the Bulldogs took second in the NEIAC tournament, and as individuals, the grapplers fared well. Only two wrestlers did not make it into the top four positions in their weight classes.

First place finishers were Creager and Klenke. Welsch and Schultz placed second. Third place winners were Jerry Kortenber, Tim Devoe and Tug Pierson. Jeff Hanley came in fourth.

Doehla won the shot put in sectionals and went on to the state meet in that event. Senior Rick Rutledge tied his high jump mark of last year.

The team elected Tom Tinsley as next year's captain. George Doehla, high point man for the Bulldogs with 118 points, was voted as the trackman to be awarded the MVP trophy. Two-miler Joe Tamm was selected as Most Improved by the coaches.

Batting performances save diamondmen

Baseball rode the roller-coaster this season, as the squad's fortunes did more hopping in 1973 than Wilbur Wood's knuckleball.

There were times—like the first fifteen games, for example—when Coach Don Huml must have lost several acres of hair wondering why his team did the things it did—like losing nine of those first fifteen.

But there were other times, immediately following the 6-9 start, when the team was successful in all it did. It won five in a row and improved its record to 11-9 by May 22.

Although the season was a series of hot and cold streaks, the squad got some solid performances from its bats. Five players hit over .300, and the club was led by Tom Rondot's .375 average. Next in line came Tom Muth, .359; Robin Bertsch, .365; Bruce Jump, .302; and Jim Eby, .300. Muth led the team in hits with 23 safeties, and Bruce Jump knocked in 15 runs to lead the club in that department.

New Haven's pitching staff was led by Rondot and Gottfried. Rondot recorded two victories against no losses and posted a microscopic earned-run average of .50. Gottfried posted a record of 4-2 to go along with an ERA of 1.40.

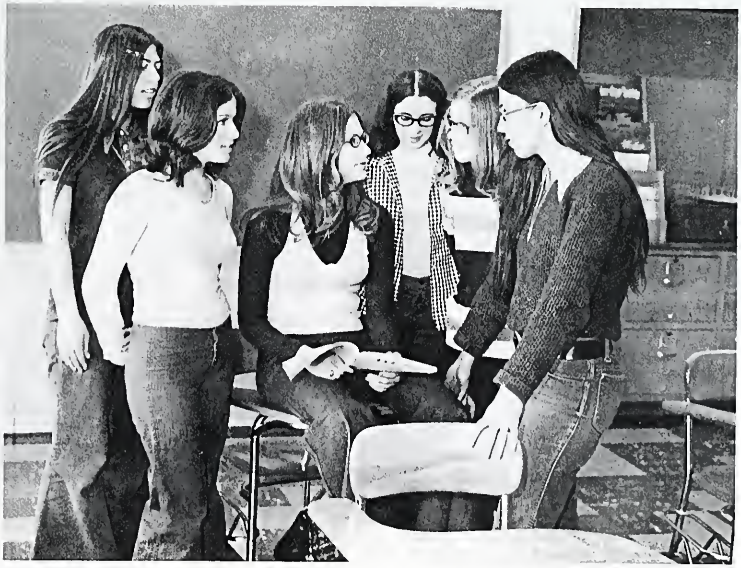
The literary magazine, VISION VI, was edited this year by Linda Johnson. The magazine was sponsored by English teachers, Miss Anne Longtine and Mr. Milton Sinn.

Copy submitted by students was reviewed by the editor and her staff.

Steno Lab typed and compiled the accepted material, and Miss Mary Manifold's beginning art class designed the cover.



Masque and Gavel performs comedy, co-hosts tourney

Masque and Gavel, a dramatic society, promoted speech activities within the school and the community. The members improved their speaking skills and gained self-confidence. They cooperated with National Forensic League in hosting the annual speech tournament in November. During the first semester emphasis was on one-act plays, which were presented to numerous organizations in the community and at a school assembly. The major achievement of Masque and Gavel was "Time Out For Ginger," a three-act play performed in early March. Group sponsors were Mr. Francis May and Mr. Everett Sauders. Officers included Wes Kuhne, president; Jana Bada, vice president; Carla Eynon, secretary; and Lorna Schofield, treasurer.

Girls learn to macrame; science club explores caves

Macrame creations, cooking labs and knitting labs were parts of Home Economics Club's projects. Sponsored by Mrs. Hunter, the girls were instructed skills, and then on their own to create and utilize their culinary and artistic abilities.

At Christmas the club hosted a party and guest speakers and films were presented throughout the year. Officers were president, Gretchan Butchman; vice president, Sandy McIntosh; secretary, Toni Printzos; and treasurer, Debbie Bennigan.

Beginning the year with its annual cave exploring trip, Science club visited Bruchner's Cave near Bloomington. In December the group toured the Joslyn Steel Plant in Fort Wayne. Mike Lynch and Mike Pelletier created projects for Tomorrow's Scientists and Engineer's program and Regional Science Fair competition, and Pelletier won a trip to California.

Checking coats was the principal job of Science club members at basketball games. They sold Bulldog license plates to finance the field trips, canoe trips and banquet during spring. Officers: president, Dave Lee; vice president, Mike Lynch; treasurer, Jill Stine; secretary, Angie Divis; point recorder, Terra Buanno.

Ecology club sponsors city-wide recycling projects

Cleaning up the community and sponsoring paper and glass recycling projects engaged Ecology club's time.

Advised by Mr. Thompson, Ecology club picked up litter in Schnelker Park, collected newspapers in November, gathered old bottles and jars in February and camped. From April through May, the group co-sponsored a second newspaper drive with the Quill and Scroll club.

First place awards were presented to Ecology club for its non-car float entry in the Homecoming Parade and poster in Victory Hall.

Officers were Kathy Pfnister, president; Janet Graft, vice president; Linda Brown, secretary; and Melbra Timmons, treasurer.

Y-Teens adopt Thanksgiving families

Y-Teens, sponsored by Mrs. Weaver and Miss Luenberger, adopted as their goal the elimination of racism, growth in friendship with people of all races, religions and nationalities.

The girls coordinated a convention titled "I am Woman" in an attempt to show that being a woman was something of which they could be proud.

Food was collected and distributed to three needy families they adopted at Thanksgiving. The girls collected food from friends and neighbors, and planned a Night Splash Party at the YWCA.

FNA explores nursing

Future Nurses began their year by hosting a party for 40 orphans at the Allen County Children's Home. The girls thought that the children would appreciate a party more if it were not on a holiday, but discovered that theirs was the third party the children had that week.

Later in the year, members were given the opportunity to visit the Fort Wayne State School. The Future Nurses ended their school year with a traditional Mother-Daughter banquet in May.

Keglers bowl in AJBC tourney

Forty-eight students participated in the bowling league at Hillcrest Bowl. The teams spilled the maples each week and the best bowlers and teams were presented trophies during the annual banquet at the end of the year.

Sponsors for the bowling league were Mr. Isch and Mr. Richie. They were assisted by Joe Derheimer, president; Mike Eagleson, vice president, and Emily Treese, secretary.

The keglers were sanctioned by the American Junior Bowling Congress and participated in the Fort Wayne AJBC tournament and the Indiana State AJBC tournament.

Lettermen sell school jerseys

To become a Letterman, a boy had to earn one varsity letter and to continue membership, he was obligated to play that sport in which he received his letter.

In addition to the usual money-making projects, the main event was the annual Spring Banquet. Co-sponsored with FCA, the banquet was for boys who played interscholastic sports. Guest speaker for the dinner was Ray May of the Baltimore Colts.

Rifle club teaches marksmanship, participates in annual turkey shoot

To teach and encourage marksmanship skills was the main goal of Rifle club. To join, each member was required to pass the NRA marksmanship and safety course which was offered once during the school year. The members participated in a turkey shoot, initiated a club championship and competed in matches against other schools.

Council plans bonfire, skits

Urging students to gather wood and turn it in at the John Young Stadium parking lot started Sportsmanship Council working hard during the fall. In addition to preparing the Homecoming bonfire, the club created and performed skits at pep sessions throughout the football and basketball seasons. During sectional week, they sold buttons which pictured the basketball team.

AYH participates in bike, ski trips, roller riding booth

American Youth Hosteling Club at New Haven was busy this year. Their activities, sponsored by Mr. Huff, included many bike rides, from Mr. Huff's house to Leo, and from New Haven to Hoagland. AYH also went skiing at Swiss Valley and opened a new booth at Sadie Hawkins, the "roller riding" booth. These activities went very well under the direction of president Wes Kuhne, vice president Doug Pond, secretary Jody Dickmeyer, treasurer chairman John South.

Unlike most clubs, AYH continued during the summer. Its activities included a trip across the Wisconsin Bike-Way, a nine-day trail ride across Michigan, and a backpacking trip in Brown County.

During meetings which were every third Thursday, future teachers discussed the teaching profession and its job opportunities. They also reviewed materials and observed teachers, helped with special student service work, such as aiding the students in the high school special education classes. This included typing, grading papers, and "tutoring" students.

FTA climaxed its year of service to New Haven by having a banquet at Don Hall's Gas House.

Future Teachers of America was headed by president Sandy Hagy, vice-president Jody Taylor, secretary Kathy Myers, and inter-club council representative Jeni Lawburgh, and prepared themselves in several ways for their careers.

Lab competes in Albuquerque

Steno Lab attended the National OEA contests in Albuquerque, New Mexico, from May 5-9. To be eligible to go to nationals the girls had to win one of the first three places in the contest they had entered at the state level. All the girls entered the business math or spelling contest as they were separate events at nationals.

Steno Lab consisted of 22 senior girls who were selected because of their shorthand and typing abilities and interest in preparing for a business career. One period during the day was an advanced shorthand class and two periods were spent in the lab working as secretary to a teacher, working on job prepared by a firm, or learning about topics related to the office.

Office Education Association is a national organization designed to prepare its members for office situations. Contests are one of its annual activities and each year a week is proclaimed as National OEA Week. Steno Lab members gave the office secretaries a red pen for OEA Week and a red rose for National Secretaries Week.

Clerical studies basic office procedures

Visiting Lincoln Life, IBM and Mutual Security Insurance Company, Mr. Stephan and his Clerical Lab girls watched secretaries perform skills the lab had practiced in class.

The girls prepared telegrams, memos, manuscripts and reservations, as well as telephone and operator techniques which will be used in office work.

Practical application of typing and secretarial skills were used when the lab completed job application forms and data sheets. The girls studied fashion trends and good grooming methods, and examined likeable personality traits to exhibit.

Clerical Lab helped teachers by typing and duplicating materials for them daily.

In March the girls donned pink paper ears and costumes to become bunnies for Sadie Hawkins night. They filmed a "comedy" and charged admission to see it at the fair for their money-making project.

Inexperience hinders MIRAGE staff

Color was the major selling point for the Mirage. Due to additional sales and careful planning, the staff produced a yearbook picturing more students and featuring four color and second color photographs.

Two changes influenced the yearbook staff and its final product—a new adviser, Miss Sue Dettmer, and a different printing company, Newsfoto.

But as deadlines approached, the familiar face and camera of Mr. Tom Walker appeared to take last minute candid and group pictures. Once again, he was the official senior and underclass photographer for the Mirage.

Faulty typewriters and lack of working space presented problems to both yearbook and newspaper staffers. Confusion often resulted when over 30 people tried to work simultaneously in the 12′ by 12′ publications room, and headlines, pictures, layouts and copy were stacked upon each other, while editors searched for additional space to complete their pages on time.

THE HERALD expands to eight pages

Major changes in the structure of THE HERALD staff were made this year for greater efficiency by adviser Sue Dettmer.

Formerly, the staff had one editor for two pages but with the new revisions each editor was responsible for copy, photo assignments and layouts for only one page.

Another change that was instituted this year was a bi-weekly eight page paper instead of the four page paper typical of the 1971-72 school year.

Some aspects of publications that the outsider never glimpsed were late hours put in after school, copy rushed to meet deadlines, talking photographers into taking pictures and trying to get them printed after they were taken.

The staff sometimes stayed until 8 or 9 p.m. to complete an issue for publication the next day. Sometimes they resorted to yelling, screaming and "hair pulling" to get an issue out on time.

Procrastination of editors and reporters caused frenzied typists to remain in front of the typewriters for hours. Editors were sometimes forced to stay up well past midnight Wednesday completing work on copy that should have been done Monday morning.

Cheerleaders add sparkle, vivacity to athletic events

Cheerleaders began the season last summer by going to a cheerleader camp in Vincennes, Indiana. Competing with approximately 400 squads, they were awarded four first-place ribbons. They were also entered in the final competition with 15-20 squads. The cheerleaders participated in an annual cheerleading clinic at Northside High School, which covered all aspects of cheerleading for all schools in Fort Wayne. Activities included planning and acting in pep sessions, participating in all events of Sportsmanship Council, selling tooth brushes to pay for camp, and sponsoring a car wash to buy new uniforms.

Pep Club generates enthusiasm, spirit, will to win.

Pep Club put in many active hours supporting and cheering the athletic teams to numerous victories. Activities involved selling t-shirts, making posters and painting signs for Homecoming and Sectionals, and operating a Penny Pitch booth at the Sadie Hawkins Country Fair. The group was sponsored by Miss Alice Sheak. Officers included Jan Sheron, president; Debbie Simon, vice president; Michelle Bremer, secretary; and Janet Thorn, treasurer.

Quill and Scroll and Ecology clubs co-sponsored a paper drive through the month of April.

They collected four and one half tons of paper and magazines, which Quill and Scroll used to help send eight members of HERALD and MIRAGE staffs to the summer workshops at Ball State University. Twelve new members were awarded memberships by adviser Miss Dettmer after attaining a B average and doing exceptional work on a staff for a minimum of one semester. Officers were, Steve Link, President and Mary Gatton, vice president.

Nostalgia swings through 50's band

Nostalgia for the fifties fads and music became vogue during the year, and 10 students created the likes of a rock band from the era for "Happening '73." Feeling their success, they expanded their group, named it "Stinky Link and the Rock and Roll Skunk Band," and began to boogie. They were booked for a 50-cent hop at school, class reunion for Elmhurst, Woodburn Days and the Three Rivers Festival to bring back the memories of Teen Angel, Betty Lou, the malt shop and bobby socks.

Spanish Club sells sopapias, at Sadie Hawkins

New members arrived right on schedule for the Initiation Party, not realizing their "plight for the night." It was highlighted by such antics as a banana-eating contest, an egg walk and a variation of bobbing for apples. Afterward everyone ate some of the Spanish sopapias with honey and whipped cream to mend the "wounds".

Activities included a car wash, Christmas party, making posters for Homecoming, and a booth at Sadie Hawkins where drinks and sopapias were sold. Spanish Club ended the year with a banquet at El Cid Cafe where awards were given for outstanding work or personal foibles.

JCL initiates 23 pledges

Junior Classical League opened its year by initiating 23 new members into the club. The initiates 'survived' a 28-day pledgeship period in which they had to get 75 points to enter the club.

The soccer team posted a 2-1 record during the fall season.

Activities undertaken by the club included a November ice skating party at McMillen Park rink, a 'funday' at Pokagon in February, the Saturnalia celebration, the Indiana JCL convention April 14, and the Roman banquet April 25.

In June and July week-long summer Latin conferences were at Indiana University, and the national JCL convention in California will take place in August.

Fine Arts sponsors talent show, attends 'Godspell'

One of the major events for Fine Arts Club was the talent show, "Happening '73." On March 28 the auditorium was filled with singers, guitarists, pianists, and comedians who performed for a sell-out crowd. One of the highlights of the evening was Stinky Link and the Rock and Roll Skunks, who were hoppin' and boppin' to the hit songs of the fifties.

Fine Arts Club members sold daisies at Sadie Hawkins, balloons at homecoming, and antenna toppers at the sectional. Several members were able to see "Godspell" at Ball State University, as well as "The Crucible" at the Civic Theater. Many were also on hand to see the spectacular performance of the Lettermen.

Concert Choir gained a reputation as an extremely fine choir in the community, by performing at the "Awards Dinner for United Way" at Cutter's Chalet, and singing for other audiences.

The members were selected to sing for the American Cancer Society Cured Cancer Assembly, where Minnie Pearl and Senator Birch Bayh observed them.

The girls in the choir presented roses to cured cancer patients at the concert, which was at Indianapolis Lawrence High School.

Concert Choir received a perfect rating at the choir contest at Elkhart High School in March, the only choir at the contest to receive a perfect rating.

The 95 member choir participated in the Thanksgiving Convocation and the Christmas Concert, and made two television appearances this year. They presented one program on the Anne Colone show and a show called Carols for Christmas last December.

The choir was directed by Mr. Fritz Hepler for 13 weeks as he substituted for Mr. Charles Henke, who directed the main portion of the year.

The choir concluded its year as it sang at the 1972-1973 commencement program.

Concert choir wins state award

Commerce Building site for choir banquet

At contests in Elkhart last March, fifth period Girls Glee took first place in the competition and sixth period won a second place award. Some of the categories that the girls ranked high in were sight reading and diction.

Directed by Mr. Charles Henke, the groups selected songs from various musical categories. They sang "The Night They Drove Old Dixie Down" by Joan Baez for pop music, as well as classical, jazz and rock music.

The girls participated in the Christmas convocation and attended the awards banquet at the Chamber of Commerce.

Spring tour, state contests highlight band

To raise money for new band uniforms, the concert band sold oranges and grapefruit at Christmas and in March.

The uniforms came in time for a spring tour and concert May 11 and were worn to Elkhart contests where the band received an excellent 8-8-9 rating.

Marching band rates superior in state

Senior Mike Watkins out-performed ten drum majors from area schools to capture the Outstanding Drum Major Award. To win the award Mike made the band respond quickly to his commands and kept good posture throughout the performance. He was judged on the manner in which the commands were given.

At the same Warsaw contest, Marching band took three out of four top honors and won class A trophies for Best Inspected Band, Outstanding Drum Major and First Division Rating. The Bulldogs placed second for the sweepstakes award.

Rated superior in state competition last summer the marching band presented colorful and innovative performances to entertain football fans.

NFL orators win trophies, plaques

National Forensic League participated in Saturday tournaments and returned home with many ribbons and trophies. The local team tied for first place at New Haven's own tournament on November 18, but disqualified itself from accepting the trophy and awarded it to Elmhurst.

Juniors Jim Leonard, Lorna Schofield and Tom Theisen and senior Scott May all qualified for state finals as they won top places in the regional competition.

Special awards were presented at the annual banquet May 3, at the Gateway Plaza Smorgasbord.

New Haven Honor Society had its annual banquet on April 19 at the Gateway Plaza Smorgasbord for all students who were members of the Honor Society. Certificates of academic achievement were awarded to each member at the banquet.

Juniors who had a scholarship index of 3.5 or better, automatically became members of the Society at the end of their sixth semester.

Seniors were included as members if they had an index of 3.2 or better at the end of their seventh semester.

All seniors who qualified for membership in the Honor Society had the option of wearing gold tassels at commencement exercises.

Congress sponsors Sadie Hawkins, parade, food drive for needy family

Students voiced opinions on vital issues, worked for new policies or changes, raised money and sponsored two main school events through Student Congress.

Although it did not win any awards for its efforts, Student Congress, aided by Mrs. Kinzie, Mr. Johnson, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Wolf, sponsored the Homecoming Parade, adopted a needy family for Christmas, hosted student elections and adopted a child for Easter.

Selling bumper stickers and sponsoring Sadie Hawkins were principle fund-raising events for the council.

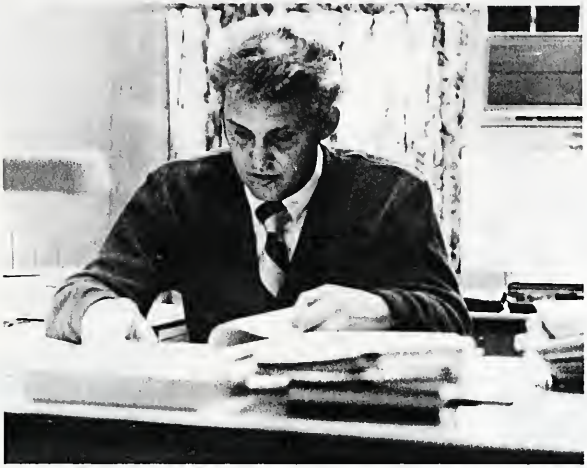
Mr. Bonahoom goes to PHHS, Mr. Clark resigns



This year's administration enacted four major changes in NHHS. The installation of a bell system was a welcome sound to some. Sounding board was introduced to let the students voice their opinions on school matters. Seniors were allowed to take one semester of government and select sociology or advanced government for a semester. The method of recording student attendance was drastically altered by sending letters to students' parents after each six absences from school, which the administration hoped would raise student attendance.

A turnover in administrative jobs occurred in the spring. Mr. Byanski replaced Mr. Bonahoom as assistant principal, since he filled the post of principal at PHHS, Mr. Clark resigned as principal and Mr. Miller resigned as superintendent after three years of service each.

School service employees provide healthy atmosphere

With training in special areas, the cooks, custodians, and nurse provided services for students. Custodians kept school facilities clean and functioning, while cooks planned economical yet nutritious meals. The nurse, for the first time, no longer issued aspirin or other medication. She could assist students with burns, blisters, and cuts that occurred during the day.

The senior class extends its deepest sympathy to Dean's family and friends.

Golf 1, 2; Wrestling 1, 2

OUR SON
Our blonde haired,
brown-eyed son
Had a good heart
loving everyone.
The joys of earth
kept him on the go
Many times going and doing,
when we said no.

Sports were his joy in life,
Not old enough to think of a job or a wife.
Golf became his great game
Wrestling to put his name in fame.

A very popular boy was our Dean
When God saw fit
to take him at sixteen.
Our sorrow is deep,
our loss is great
To see him again,
We patiently wait.

One thing we know for sure,
God washed him clean,
made him pure.
He again is full of love and joy
With the Lord is our little boy.

By Mrs. Ann Johnson

Psalm 23

The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures, He leadeth me beside the still waters, He restoreth my soul. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil for Thou art with me, Thy rod and Thy staff comfort me. Thou preparest a table for me, in the presence of my enemies. My cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

Kathy will attend Taylor University, where she received the President's Scholarship. She plans to major in pre-engineering and won the Rennselaer Medal for science and mathematics. Kathy, a National Merit Finalist, had a perfect 4.0 grade average.

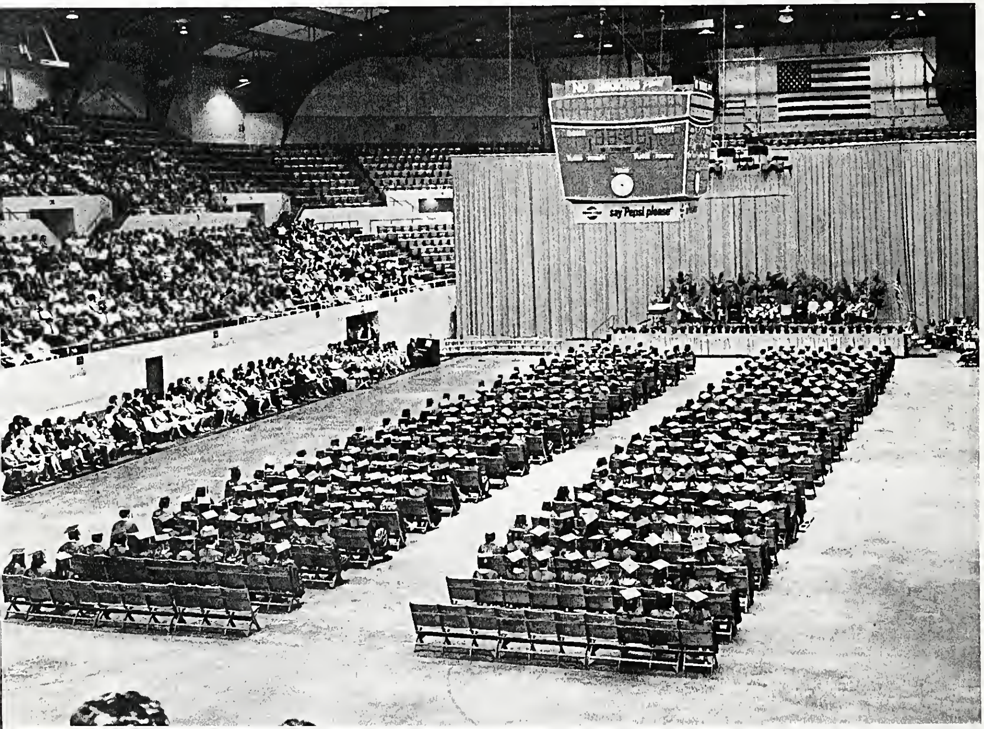
Co-salutatorians Carol and Scott had 3.91 grade averages.

Carol plans to attend Indiana University but is undecided as to what she will major in. Carol has won several medals in district and state music contests.

Scott will major in pre-law at the Indiana Regional Campus. He won several awards for speaking including first place in the Senate of Student Congress Contest. He received the distinction of being one of the top ten students in the nation in speaking.

Their speeches were given at the commencement exercises May 27 at the Memorial Coliseum.

Pfnister, May, Barnhart take top honors



Above: Capturing the distinction of being the largest class to graduate from New Haven, the class of '73 was also the last class to graduate from the traditional three grade high school.

Above far right: Former seniors rushed behind the stage curtain to return their gowns so they could depart for the long-awaited celebrations.

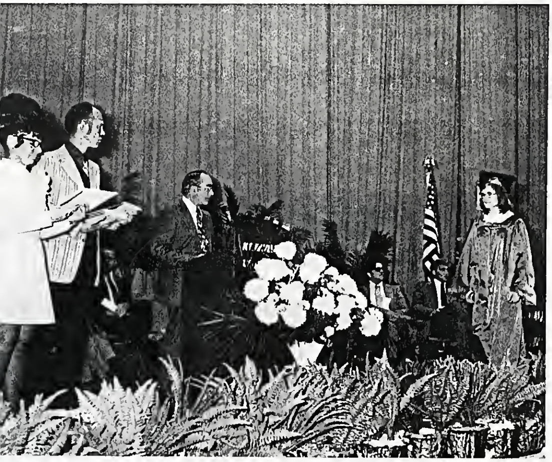
Class of '73 ranks largest to graduate

Four-hundred fifty students left the Memorial Coliseum as graduates of the class of 1973.

Lee Smith, president of the Senior Class, served as master of ceremonies. Religious emphasis was given by Rev. Paino. The band and choir participated in the program with selections, "Impossible Dream," "Alleluia," and "The Seventh Seal" between speeches by valedictorian, Kathy Pfnister, and co-salutatorians, Carol Barnhart and Scott May.

Caps and gowns were deep purple with purple and gold tassels. Honor Society wore gold tassels.

Principal Robert D. Clark presented the class, and Dr. Richard Miller, superintendent of schools, spoke briefly.



Seniors give treasury to sophomores

Right: Cindy Lash accepts her diploma to symbolize the end of 12 years of schooling.

I reached for an image, caught myself forever

Below: Demonstrating a style her very own, senior Cheri Coburn gracefully deposits herself on the ground.

My inner-self is the most important and most difficult part of me to catch. What others see on the outside is a shield protecting me from all the hate and ugliness of the world, from the uncaring people shuffling by me, and worst of all, from myself. But on the inside, my soul cries out to be heard, echoing back to me from the emptiness of those around me. How do I be myself from the inside out? I must catch myself this way and let the world see the real me. Take away all the shields of protection, for are they really needed? They hide the me I want everyone to know. If I can do this and give of my real self, I will catch myself before I disappear.

Individuality was difficult to attain with so many students in one school. I struggled to find an image before I was trampled under the weight of the masses.

I reached that destination despite the tremendous odds. How easy it would have been to disappear into the surging crowds. I learned to catch myself forever.

I learned how to catch myself forever

The MIRAGE staff has tried to capture the memories and events of the year that made it unique.

I would like to thank the entire staff for all their help in preparing this book. Many nights of staying after school and working during activity and lunch were greatly appreciated.

Special thanks go to Mary Gatton and Rae Schnuth for assisting me, the photographers, especially Chris Underwood, for pictorial work, Janet Blossom for writing copy, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walker for last-minute help, and to our Newsfoto representative, Mr. Dick Kennard for his counsel.

I also want to thank our adviser, Miss Sue Dettmer, for all her guidance.

As you look through this book, I hope you can say that you did not disappear into the tremendous crowds, content with being just a number; that you did catch yourself in the events of this year, finding yourself as someone unique.
